COMPREHENSION

Read each passage carefully and answer the questions that follow it.

The approach to the University is being restructured to ease the flow of traffic, give better security and provide an appropriate introduction to a seat of higher learning. The Works and Services Complex is also under construction, and we intend to move into the completed {major} part of it within the next few weeks.

All these projects are being executed with an eye to aesthetics, for we recognize the important influence of a beautiful and healthy environment on its inhabitants and feel that a cluster of buildings on a small space such as we have, should be so well designed as to have a beneficial psychological and sociological effect on all members of the community.

I have gone to these lengths to itemize these examples of current development for two main reasons. Firstly, to advise you that the road diversions and other physical inconveniences currently being experienced will be on the increase because of intense development activity. We therefore appeal to you to bear with us in full knowledge and consolation that such inconveniences are temporary and will soon yield final tangible results. Secondly, to demonstrate our capacity for executing approved projects with dispatch, and to assure Government that we are up to the task. Indeed, I can assure Government that its ability to disburse funds to us will be more than matched by our capacity to collect and expend them on executing various worthy projects in record time.

- From the passage we can gather that
 - there is not much consideration for the health of the inhabitants.
 - there is deliberate effort to inconvenience the people
 - buildings are put up anyhow
 - projects are carried out without approval
 - the inconveniences suffered by the inhabitants will be for a while.
- Unless it can be shown that the money voted for projects can be spent on them in good time.
 - the development activity will not be intense.
 - it will not be easy to convince the Government of our executive ability
 - it will not be difficult to ask Government for funds
 - our final results will be unreliable.
 - the road diversions and other inconveniences will continue.
- An eye to aesthetics in this passage means
 - regard for space.
 - beneficial psychological effects
 - regard for health
 - consideration for beauty
 - a cluster of buildings.
- In this passage the author tries to explain why
 - it is necessary to establish the Works and Services Complex in the University.
 - beauty should not be taken into consideration when building on such a small space as we have
 - the gateway to the university is being rebuilt
 - major part of the project should be completed in the next few weeks.
 - visitors should be debarred from using the gates in the meantime.
- Which of these is NOT among the reasons given by the author for enumerating the examples of the current development?
 - to show that we are capable of executing approved projects.
 - to convince the Government that we can be trusted with task.
 - the inconvenience currently being experienced will go on indefinitely.
 - we are fully aware of the inconveniences being caused but we do not want you to complain.
 - we have the capacity to complete worthy projects within the scheduled time.

Is work for prisoners a privilege to save them from the demoralizing effects and misery of endless unoccupied hours? Is it something added to a prison sentence to make it harder and more unpleasant, or something, which should have a positive value as part of a system of rehabilitation?

Those magistrates who clung to sentences of hard labour doubtless looked upon strenuous work as an additional punishment. This point of view is widely accepted as right and proper, but it ignores the fact that unwillingness to work is often one of the immediate causes of criminality. To send prisoners back to the outside world, more than ever convinced that labour is an evil to be avoided, is to confirm them in their old way of life.

It has been said that the purpose of prison work in a programme of rehabilitation is twofold: training for work and training by work. The prisoner, that is to say, needs to be trained in habits of industry; but over and above this, he will gain immeasurably if it is possible to rouse in him the consciousness of self-mastery and of purpose that the completion of any worthwhile piece of work can give to the doer. He may find a pride of achievement in something more satisfying, and more socially desirable, than crime. But these things can only come when the work itself has a purpose and demands an effort.

- According to the author, some magistrates sentence prisoners to hard labour because.
 - some prisoners are unwilling to work.
 - work is a privilege
 - prisoners need to learn a trade
 - it is an additional punishment
 - it is a means of rehabilitation.
- Which of these is NOT the purpose of work in a programme of rehabilitation?
 - training the prisoners to have satisfaction in work.
 - developing in them a pride in a sense of achievement.
 - developing in them more satisfaction in work than in crime.

- D. helping them to accelerate their reform and discharge.
E. training them for work and by work.

The Save the Children Fund (SCF) was first started in London on 19th May, 1919 by an English woman --- named Miss Jebb. It is now a worldwide organization, dedicated to helping needy children everywhere. The SCF of Malawi was formed in 1953, under the patronage of His Excellency the Life President Ngawazi Dr. H. Kamuzu Banda.

'Our job in Malawi is to give those unfortunate children the rights that they are deprived of through no fault of theirs. These are internationally recognized as the ten rights of children and include protection, care, food and accommodation, and relief', a spokesman for the Fund explained.

One of those who benefited from the help of the Fund is Samuel Mpetechula, a graduate of Chancellor. His sponsorship started in 1967. The SCF of Malawi found him sponsors. They were Mr. and Mrs. Sutton of Australia who paid his school fees and continued to help him financially throughout his University education.

Mr. Mpetechula said, 'They even built a house for me at home and looked after my family while I was a student. They were really helpful to me, and the thought that there were these sponsors caring for me from thousands of kilometers away from here was an encouragement for me to work hard at college'.

Another important function of the work of the SCF is in the field of nutrition. With the help of the Australian Government, the SCF established two nutrition rehabilitation centers for children; one at Mpemba and another in Mulanje. 'The object of the centre', explained Mr. Petre Chimbe, the Executive Secretary of the Fund, 'is to combat malnutrition in children, by giving them the proper food.'

11. In Malawi, the 'Save the Children Fund' was formed
A. by an English woman named Miss Jebb in 1919
B. in 1919 under the patronage of His Excellency the Life President Ngawazi Dr. H. Kamuzu Banda
C. under the patronage of His Excellency the Life President Ngawazi Dr. H. Kamuzu Banda in 1953
D. in 1953 by a group of social workers headed by Dr. Mbagunda
E. none of the above.

At the time of the troubles in Ireland, a priest said, 'Man is half beast.' A diplomat replied, 'Yes. And the beast is the half I like the best.' The priest meant that few beasts behave as badly as man when man makes up his mind to behave badly. If you look at the folly and cruelty of today's world, it is hard to disagree with the diplomat or the priest. But human nature can be changed. Anybody, if that is what they most want to do, can change the most difficult person they know. The art of changing people has been lost in the modern world. That is why the modern world has lost its way.

There are two ways of looking at human nature. One is to make the best of it as it is and assume that it is the raw material of life which cannot be altered. That is what most people in the free world do today. In these circumstances, if you expect the worst, you are seldom disappointed. Faith today has become irrelevant to the everyday needs of so many people in positions of responsibility because they do not expect faith to change men.

Another way of dealing with human nature is to exploit it. All materialists, whether of the right or the left, do this. All over the world vanity, fear, ambition, lust and greed are used to control the life of men; and if the control breaks down, man does not hesitate to use force, or to destroy life. The end, he says, justifies the means and men are only of value in so far as they are a means towards the achievement of his ambition. If they cannot be bribed or forced to play their part, then they must be liquidated.

16. The priest meant that
A. man is both beast and human
B. man could be sores than a beast if he wants to

- C. he liked beasts more than man
 D. he liked both man and beast
 E. really, a man cannot be a beast.
17. The modern world has lost its way because
 A. it no longer believes in God
 B. ambition has made people greedy
 C. people are no longer interested in one another
 D. the technique of influencing people is no more
 E. people are just too selfish.
18. What most people do in the free world today is to
 A. leave other people alone
 B. assume that human nature is bad
 C. accept human nature as it is since it is immutable.
 D. attempt to change the world E. leave the world as it is.
19. Faith today is by and large irrelevant because
 A. nobody thinks it can alter human nature
 B. most people do not believe in God
 C. being in a position of responsibility nullifies the importance of faith
 D. responsible people need not bother about faith
 E. the faithful are very few in the world anyway.
20. Materialists can be found
 A. in capitalist countries
 B. in communist countries
 C. in less developed countries
 D. among people who do not have neighbours.
 E. all over the world.

Typical Zacharia! Devil-may care and irreverent as ever. No doubt he was just the same when he was cook to a Greek trader in the town. In fact, I suspect that to him the Reverend Father is just another sort of trader. Conceited ass, thinking himself superior to the Father! And in what is he superior? Success with women, perhaps? Zacharia knows that they all admire him and is always striving for still more admiration. He dresses sharply and walks in a haughty manner that suits his tallness. And then he feeds his pride on the swarms of girls who run after him. It's maddening to think how little you need to attract them. I remember my mother coming home from market in the town, after selling her vegetables and cocoa. How indignant she was: 'It's so shameful,' she cried, 'our best-looking and most respectable girls go to town and throw themselves at strangers as ugly as sin, speaking the most outlandish tongues. Men I can scarcely look at without shuddering! And why? Just money! Money! Ah, what a world! And my father replied in a buried voice, 'It's the times!' 'The times!' shouted mother, 'can you imagine my child Ann with creatures like those?'

But perhaps the girls who chase Zacharia aren't drawn by his tallness or his leather shoes. Perhaps they're only after childish things, a bit of bread or a pot of jam, knowing that he's a cook. My father often says women are like children in their desires. And after all, I too can boast a little. Plenty of women turn to look at me, especially when I'm dressed all in white! But I'm not vain enough to fuss over a little thing like that. Not like Zacharia, who doesn't know women are simply children.

- A. was the cook of a trader B. worked for a priest
C. worked for the speaker's mother D. was a rich man
E. was a handsome man
22. Which of the following was NOT a quality of Zacharia's character?

COMPREHENSION

Read each passage carefully and answer the questions that follow it.

I

It was summer, early afternoon. Jim ran into the station. The 4.30 train was about to leave. As he ran along the platform he saw a girl just ahead of him. She was young -- about his age. He followed her into a carriage and sat down opposite her. She took out a magazine and was reading it. He took out a book and pretended to do the same. After a minute he looked up and smiled at her. She didn't smile back but gave him an encouraging look. Both returned to their reading but this time she was pretending too.

He found her attractive and wanted to see her again. But how to arrange it?. He had an idea. He took an old envelope out of his pocket and wrote the following words: 'Hallo! My number is 123-4567 and my name is Jim. I would very much like to see you again. Ring me at nine.'

The train arrived at the terminal. Without looking at the girl, he handed her the envelope, or rather threw it at her, and jumped off the train.

When he got home he made himself a cup of coffee and wondered... perhaps she was one of those naturally friendly people who smile at everybody. He was listening to the radio when the telephone rang... it was only Umaru. Nine o'clock, then 9:30 and no telephone call from the girl. Feeling miserable he went to bed early.

It was a foggy morning. 'Hallo, is that Jim? This is Joan. You...' It was two minutes past nine.

- On the train Jim was
 A. reading a book B. staring at the girl
 C. pretending to read D. looking through a magazine
 E. reading a newspaper.
- He wanted to see the girl again because
 A. it was summer B. she was attractive
 C. he wanted to read her magazine D. she smiled at him
 E. they had agreed to meet.
- He hoped to arrange a date with her by
 A. writing a letter to her B. ringing her up
 C. waiting at the station D. handing in a short note in a hurry
 E. sending a telegram.
- That evening he had a telephone call from

- A. his colleague, Umaru B. the girl he met on the train
 C. the railway authorities D. nobody at all

A British electronics manufacturer has built a factory in which quartz crystals can be grown in 3 weeks. The natural growth of quartz takes 3 million years, and very often the crystals are not sufficiently pure to satisfy the precise needs of science. However, the manufactured crystal are exceptionally pure, and this is important because quartz, in transistor, is used in an astonishing number of devices where constant accuracy is required: radio and television transmitters and receivers, space satellites and computers are familiar examples. In order to make artificial quartz, very small pieces of the natural crystal imported from Brazil are placed in long, narrow, steel cylinders. A high pressure and a high temperature are maintained within the cylinders for 3 weeks, and at the end of this time the small fragments have grown to the required weight of one pound. The quartz is then ready to be made into the tiny transistors that have replaced the much larger thermionic valves.

- The manufactured crystals have to be pure
 A. because natural quartz is pure
 B. to maintain hygiene in factory work
 C. to satisfy the precise needs of importers.
 D. to satisfy the exact requirements of science.
 E. otherwise they would take 3 million years to grow.
- According to the passage, quartz is used
 A. only in a few devices B. in a lot of devices
 C. in wrist watches D. for jewellery
 E. for steel cylinders.
- Artificial quartz as compared with natural is
 A. superior. B. inferior C. just the same D. varied
 E. limited in use.
- Transistors have
 A. helped to produce quartz
 B. made radio and television inaccessible to the working populace
 C. made transmitters and receivers smaller and lighter.
 D. retarded progress in electronics.
 E. made transmitters and receivers bigger and heavier.

10. Artificial quartz is produced
- in Brazil
 - from tiny transistors
 - in an astonishing number of devices
 - with the help of thermionic valves
 - from natural crystals within steel cylinders.

Every artist's work, unless he be a hermit, creating solely for his own satisfaction and with no need of sales, is to some extent 'socially conditioned'; he depends upon the approval of his patrons. Social conditioning is of course part of the field of study of the social anthropologist, yet I am not aware that the social conditioning of artists has ever been seriously studied. That such study is needed for the proper appraisal of traditional African art is evident enough when we note the ingenuous assumption, current in many writings on the subject, that the carver's hand is so closely controlled by the custom of centuries that the credit for any creative imagination which is apparent in his work is due not to him but to the long succession of his predecessors.

Of course, there is an element of trust in this view of the tribal artist as copyist, but it is hardly more valid for the African than for the European artist. In both cases the work of art is the outcome of a dialectic between the informing tradition and the individual genius of the artist, and in both the relative strength of these two forces may vary almost infinitely. To assess the personal ingredient in an African carving is no easy matter, especially if one is confronted with a rare or unique piece in an unfamiliar style; but the considerations involved are much the same as those employed in European art criticism.

11. Most artists are strongly influenced by the
- desire for self-expression.
 - need to sell their works
 - tastes and wishes of the society
 - creative imagination
 - opinions of critics.
12. A social anthropologist is someone who
- studies only social conditioning
 - is interested in art and artists
 - studies social conditions and other things
 - is interested in the community
 - studies the origins of man.
13. It would be useful to study the social conditioning of artist because
- we know that African art is entirely influenced by tradition.
 - traditional art arises from the customs of the people
 - an artist's predecessors solely determine the nature of his work
 - we do not know the extent to which an artist is influenced by his society
 - we do not know very much about how an artist's creative imagination works.
14. 'The work of art is the outcome of a dialectic between the informing tradition and the individual genius of the artist' means that
- the artist is influenced both by the society and by his own creative imagination

- there is an irreconcilable conflict between an artist's creativity and the demands that society makes on him.
- the artist subordinates his individual talent to the demands of the society
- few works of art are entirely original
- the individual artist needs to be informed about the traditions of the society.

15. Which of the following represents the writer's view about African art in relation to European Art?
- The African artist is influenced by his society, but the European artist is not
 - In both African and European art there is a blend of tradition and individual creativity
 - African art is tribal, but European art is not
 - Although traditional influences can be seen in European art, they are much less strong than they are in African art
 - African artists are more imitative than European artists.

One day, Alan, a friend of mine, who likes country life, was fishing in a river, when he caught a trout. He tried to pull the fish in but it slipped off the hook, flew over his head and landed in a field behind him.

Alan put down his rod, went through the gate and started searching for his trout. Some people, obviously from the city, were having a picnic in the field. One of the men shouted 'What on earth are you doing?' Thinking that it was a stupid question because they could see how he was dressed, Alan replied 'Fishing'.

'Don't be silly, the fish are down in the river', answered the man. 'Fish don't live in fields!' He turned to his friends, laughing, thinking that he had made a good joke.

'Oh, but they do', said Alan. 'They jump out of the river to look for flies and I catch them with my hands. 'At that moment he found his trout in the grass and picked it up and showed it to the picnickers. He put it in his basket and bent down, as if he was hunting for another one. The picnickers, no longer laughing, spent the rest of the day searching the field.

16. Why did the fish land in the field?
- it had wings
 - it was a flying fish
 - it was looking for food
 - Alan pulled too hard.
 - it fell off the hook.
17. The picnickers were
- farmers
 - from the nearby village
 - tourists
 - people from the city
 - anglers like him.
18. Where was Alan looking for his fish? He was looking for the fish
- in the grass,
 - down in the river
 - in front of the gate
 - in his basket
 - among the picnickers.
19. Alan made the picnickers believe that fish jump out of the river to look for flies by
- telling a story.
 - finding his trout and showing it to them
 - taking them down to the river
 - watching how trout catch flies

- E. picking up a fish and looking for more.
20. 'He laughs best who laughs last' (proverb). It is true of this story because
- the picnickers were enjoying themselves
 - finally he found his fish
 - Alan played a good trick on the picnickers
 - fishing is a pastime
 - Alan likes country life.

In 1973 a Japanese sericulturist arrived in Malawi with a batch of 40,000 silkworm eggs. They were taken to the Bvumbwe Agricultural Research Station in Thyolo District. In this station, work is being done to determine favourable silkworm rearing conditions and areas where mulberry trees, whose leaves the worms feed on, could grow well. According to researchers, the silkworms – which eventually develop into cocoons from which raw silk is produced – do well in areas with warm climatic conditions.

Silk is one of the strongest of fibres. In fact, for thousands of years, silk fabrics have been regarded as the most beautiful and durable materials woven by man. Many people call silk the 'cloth of kings and queens'.

The weaving of silk originated in China. An old Chinese book, believed to be written by Confucius, tells us that the wife of Emperor Huang-ti was the first person to make fabrics of silk. Around 2640 B.C., Emperor Huang-ti asked his wife Hsi Ling-shih to study the worms that were destroying the mulberry trees in his garden. The Empress took some of the cocoons into the palace to see what they were made of. She dropped one of the cocoons into a bowl of boiling water and was amazed to see a cobweb-like tangle separate itself from the cocoon. She picked up the gauzy mass and found that one of the threads could be unwound almost without end from the cocoon. His Ling-shih had discovered silk. She was delighted with the discovery and even wove a ceremonial robe for the Emperor out of the cocoon threads. After that, the officials in the Emperor's court wore brightly dyed silk robes on important occasions.

People in other countries regarded the new fibres as something rare and beautiful. A few traders went to China to learn about making cloth from silk, but the Chinese kept their silk worms a closely guarded secret.

21. Sericulture is
- carried out only in China
 - the breeding of silkworms for the production for silk
 - the research done on silkworms
 - the making of cloth from the cocoons of silkworms
 - the breeding of silkworms in Malawi.
22. It is implied in this passage that silk was discovered
- after years of hard work and research by the Empress
 - by accident
 - in the search for a more durable fibre for making cloth.
 - after some experiments carried out by the Japanese sericulturist
 - by design.
23. According to sericulturists, silkworms
- cannot survive in a warm climate
 - may be reared on any tree
 - do well in areas with a warm climate
 - produce the longest threads when they are fed leaves from the top of the mulberry tree
 - are destroyed by heat.
24. The work carried out at the Agricultural Research Station in Malawi on the silkworm eggs was to

- try to breed cocoons which would produce more silk
- determine the survival rate of silkworms
- find out the most suitable areas and conditions for rearing silkworms
- search for better method of rearing silk worms
- find out how cocoons become silkworms.

25. Choose the meaning which best fits the underlined phrase from the passage. Closely guarded secret
- Carefully hidden from the knowledge of others

COMPREHENSION PASSAGE

Read each passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

PASSAGE I

- Obi: Let's go to the Sports Club Cafeteria. One naira per meal is a privilege in this country And God knows that I am too broke to afford anything more.
- Olu: Got a membership identity card? Don't forget the place is for bona fide members only.
- Obi: Forget it. There are other types of identity cards, remember. Just flash something before the eyes of those men at the gate, provided it looks like an identity card.
- Olu: Ee... eh, I see. That is why the place is always congested. I don't think it is even worth the trouble. I can't stand a queue.
- Obi: That shouldn't bother you. You don't have to join the queue. Just walk straight to the serving point without fear and be sure you shout your order.
- Olu: But only V.I.Ps have the right to break queues.
- Obi: Sure, but V.I.Ps don't wear badges on their faces. Pose man, pose. After all, this is Nigeria.
- Olu: You mean there are many impostors here?
- Obi: Certainly, and many people with privileges too. If you want to get along, you must pose, and to get along means getting what you want. If you choose to term it question of semantics. 'privileges', it suits me. It is all a

PASSAGE II

Days passed fast for Ntanya and Teresa. They could hardly notice the land getting brown all over Kachawanga again, since neither of them hardly noticed any more the sun come up and go down. Ntanya would work very hard in the field hauling in the last harvest and Teresa would stay at home washing, cooking and waiting, waiting for him to come home. She would cook his meal with extra care and when there was little meat she would only give bits to the children and not even touch it herself but use only the smell to get her food down and reserve the whole chunk for her husband. When Ntanya would come home with sweat on his brows she would put the wooden tray on a stool for him and sit down by him watching him eat with great satisfaction: every bolus that went down ntonya's throat would also go down her own throat. When Ntanya would insist on sharing the food with her she would always say she had eaten already no matter how hungry she might be. Ntanya would then eat and drink to his satisfaction and always rest a while in the sun after saying 'Thank you mother'.

(Taken from Peter K. Palangyo's novel: Dying in the sun)

6. Bolus in the passage means

 A. Ntanya would eat to his satisfaction
 B. Ntanya would say 'Thank you mother'
 C. she could cook again
 D. she could watch his eat
 E. every bolus would go down her own throat.

PASSAGE III

Mathematics is the language in which the Book of Nature is written: Mathematics is the queen of the sciences. it is universally agreed that Mathematics is the backbone of Science and Technology. For without Mathematics the engineer is but an artist or a sculptor. He can build his bridge, attest of its form and beauty, but without Mathematics he cannot guarantee its reliability to serve the purpose for which it is built. Mathematics is indeed the science of sciences. It is also art of all arts. It is right, legitimate and defensible to consider Mathematics as an Art. The poet, the musician, the artist and the mathematician have a lot in common. Fundamental to all their studies and works is their common interest in the logical study of related concepts and objects to form patterns which will produce beauty, harmony and logical order. Thus the poet arranges words to produce a pattern called poetry: the musician arranges sounds to produce a pattern called music: the artist arranges colours to produce a pattern called painting and the mathematician arranges abstract ideas into a pattern, using symbols, to produce equations. Each of these patterns - the poem, the music, the painting and the equation must stand up to the test of some order, harmony and beauty. So if Mathematics is not an art what is art?

PASSAGE IV

My good people: I come before you this evening as a man whose honesty and integrity have been questioned. Now, the usual political thing to do when charges are levelled against you is either to ignore them or to deny them without giving details. But before I answer any of your questions, let me state categorically that I have not touched a kobo of the N50,000 we contributed. Every kobo of it has been used in defraying political campaign expenses.

As a matter of fact, during one of my meet-the-press conferences, Tony Agiwa accosted me and said, ‘Honourable Senator, what about this fund we hear about?’ I told him there was no secret about the fund and that he should meet Abu O. Abu to get details of the fund. I told him, ‘You will find that the purpose of the fund was primarily to defray political expenses.’ In answer to another one of his questions, I said that neither contributors to this fund, nor contributors to any of my campaigns had ever received any special consideration that he would not have received as an ordinary constituent. And I can say that never, since I became a Senator, have I made a telephone call for them to an agency or have I gone down to an agency on their behalf. Records will show that, and these records are in the hands of the Administrator.

- 16. The author is
 - A. exonerating himself from allegations of embezzlement
 - B. ignoring the allegations of embezzlement
 - C. taking part in a political campaign
 - D. demonstrating that he is a Senator
 - E. trying to implicate Abu O. Abu, a fellow politician.

 - A. grossly insulted
 - B. greeted
 - C. fought with
 - D. forced
 - E. went and spoke to
- 19. It appears that the N50,000
 - A. has been spent
 - B. has been paid into the government treasury
 - C. will soon be paid into the government treasury
 - D. has been saved by Abu O. Abu
 - E. will be used for future campaigns.
- 20. Abu O. Abu is portrayed as
 - A. a corrupt politician
 - B. the administrator of the fund
 - C. an ordinary taxpayer
 - D. a government official
 - E. a citizen

PASSAGE V

The land was ready and ploughed, waiting for the crops. At night, the earth was alive with insects singing and rustling about in search of food. But suddenly, by mid-November, the rain fled away: the rain-clouds fled away and left the sky bare.

the last drop of moisture out of the earth. The family sat down in despair, waiting and waiting. Their hopes had run so high; the goats had started producing milk, which they had eagerly poured on their porridge, now they ate plain porridge with no milk. It was impossible to plant corn, maize, pumpkin and water-melon seeds in the dry earth. They sat the whole day in the shadow of the huts and even stopped thinking, for the rain had fled away. Only the children were quite happy in their little girl world. They carried on with their game of making house like their mother and chattered to each other in light, soft tones. They made children from sticks around which they tied rags, and scolded them severely in an exact imitation of their own mother. Their voices could be heard scolding all day long: 'You stupid thing, when I send you to draw water, why do you spill half of it out of the bucket?' 'You stupid thing! Can't you mind the porridge pot without letting the porridge burn?' Then, they would beat the rag-dolls on their bottoms with severe expressions.

The adults paid no attention to this; their nerves were stretched to breaking point waiting for the rain to fall out of the sky. Nothing was important, beyond that. All their animals had been sold during the bad years to purchase food, and of all their herd only two goats were left. It was the women of the family who finally broke down under the strain of waiting for rain.

COMPREHENSION

Read each passage carefully and answer the questions that follow

PASSAGE 1

It is customary nowadays among fashionable ladies and gentlemen to acquire strange and sometimes quaint clothes which are scarcely ever used. Sometimes it may be an approaching festival, sometimes a two hour ceremony and sometimes to honour a dead colleague – something triggers off the modern craze to sew new materials whose use does not outlast the moment of craze. And so, people who just occupy small apartments in their parent homes, or have rented one room in a densely-people house find that more than two-thirds of their rooms are filled with bongo trousers which they cannot wear, worn out jeans which stink, or specially made cloth for occasions that are not recurrent.

Although plagued by the problem of school fees for their children, parents have had to swallow their own phlegm and humour their children who need special clothes for important events. Newly employed youths soon find that their comrades are getting married, and a new and special attire must be used to grace the occasion. University students see matriculation ceremonies or induction ceremonies into club membership as special reasons to make new attire which – you may be sure – they would not wear on another occasion that parallels the one for which these clothes were made.

Medical doctors may soon find another cause for the incidence of high blood pressure among the youth. ‘The desire to acquire new clothes’ is one strong possible cause, but a more subtle one which haunts like a ghost is the problem of choice of what to wear. The youths have so suffered their apartments, wardrobes, drawers and trunks with so many clothes that the greatest problem they face is the choice of what to wear.

1. A suitable title for this passage is
 - A. Fashion craze
 - B. Fashion craze among the youth
 - C. University students and induction ceremonies
 - D. Parents and the money for fashion craze.
2. In this passage the expression ‘parents have had to swallow their own phlegm’ means parents,
 - A. had to swallow the sputum in their mouths
 - B. have been phlegmatic all along
 - C. have had to overcome their own pride or prejudice
 - D. no longer had to swallow their own phlegm.
3. The youth acquire clothes for
 - A. burials, great occasions or for matriculation ceremonies
 - B. occasions that are not recurrent
 - C. boosting their ego
 - D. the purpose of praising their parents.
4. In this passage we learn that parents
 - A. admire their children’s craze for new clothes
 - B. do not provide the money for the fashion craze
 - C. endure a lot of hardship to provide for their children
 - D. gladly provide the money for the fashion craze.
5. A likely cause of high blood pressure among the youth is
 - A. the clothes they wear to parties
 - B. that different clothes are meant for different occasions
 - C. that the youth have stuffed their wardrobes, apartments and drawers with new clothes
 - D. the thought of the choice of what to wear.

PASSAGE II

Delinquency describes actions that would not be crimes if performed by adults. If a young person performs one of such actions then he has committed a crime. Delinquency is one of several status offences – offences that can be committed only by people in particular stations of life as determined by age, profession or a person’s role in society. For young people such offences include drinking, driving and smoking under age. Usually they are offences only to the extent that they help to preserve some of the good things of life for the exclusive enjoyment of the adult world. Delinquency is therefore a weapon forged in adult minds and directed by adult hands against young people. It is born out of envy, adult pride and intolerance. If the world changed overnight and the responsibility to make and enforce laws fell on juvenile shoulders, the adults should expect a raw deal in return. Delinquency would then certainly refer only to many of the adult actions now freely committed by them.

6. The writer of the passage believes that delinquency laws are
 - A. not relevant to human society
 - B. only fit for young people
 - C. unfair to the juveniles
 - D. very fair to the adult world.
7. Status offences are those that can be committed
 - A. all adults
 - B. juveniles only
 - C. delinquent juveniles only
 - D. specified classes of people.
8. In the view of the writer, drinking under age is an offence because
 - A. adults want to have all he drink to themselves
 - B. adults do not want juveniles to get drunk
 - C. drunken juveniles can cause disorder in society
 - D. adults have a duty to protect young persons.
9. If the world changed overnight
 - A. there would be more delinquency laws
 - B. delinquency would refer to all adult actions
 - C. delinquency would no more be a crime
 - D. delinquency would also change in meaning.
10. When young people make and enforce laws
 - A. the responsibility will be too heavy on their shoulders
 - B. they would retaliate against the adults
 - C. their laws will be very juvenile
 - D. the world will be turned upside down.

PASSAGE III

Those who are familiar with it will tell you that Ludo, like human life itself, is a game both of chance and skill. You need skill in deciding how to make the most advantageous use of the figures that turn up on the die when you cast it. Since each player has at least four alternative ways of using his figures, two players with equal luck may fare differently, depending on how cleverly each one uses his figures. The element of luck, again as in human life, plays a dominant role however. For no matter how skilful a player may be in using the figures he gets on the die, he has a slim chance of winning if he continually throws low figures. While a combination of ones and twos may be useful in checking the advance of one's opponents, it will not take one home fast enough to win. On the other hand, consistent throws of sixes and fives, with even the very minimum of skill, will help a player to home all his four counters before any of the three other players, unless, of course, he has no idea of the game at all.

11. According to the passage, Ludo is
 - A. more a game of skill than of chance
 - B. more a game of luck than of skill
 - C. equally a game of chance and skill
 - D. a game entirely of luck.

12. It is implied in the passage that two players may fare equally if they
 - A. have equal luck
 - B. apply similar skill to figures
 - C. apply similar skill to similar figures
 - D. have equal skill.

13. It is implied in the passage, that in Ludo threes and fours are
 - A. very high throws B. medium throws
 - C. low throws D. very low throws.

14. According to the passage, a player with consistently high throws will
 - A. almost certainly win a game
 - B. certainly win a game
 - C. almost certainly not win a game
 - D. deliberately not win a game.

15. In the passage, the possession of skill specifically enables a player to
 - A. win
 - B. throw good figures
 - C. use his figures efficiently
 - D. check his opponents efficiently

PASSAGE IV

Farming is the most important aspect of agriculture that has attracted attention within the last few years. Agriculture has several other aspects like fishery, livestock and poultry. All these are also important in that they have to do with the production of food items which human beings consume for survival.

In many parts of the world today, farming has been regarded as the mainstay of the economy. Crops such as cocoa, rubber and cotton have been produced in such commercial quantity that they are sold to other countries. Some countries have better comparative advantage in producing certain farm crops than other countries. In these other countries, there is the need to spend a lot of money on agriculture, particularly farming.

D. harvest too much at a time.

PASSAGE V

It may be argued that museums as an institution and an agency for transmitting cultural heritage are an artificial creation, so far as objects are removed from their natural or proper environments and put into museums which are a different environment altogether. However, it seems that museums themselves have come to be accepted and recognized as the best equipped institutions devised by man for the assemblage of cultural objects and their presentation and preservation for the present and future generations.

The artificial character of museums is however being gradually transformed into a cultural reality. Thus, just as one goes to the theatre for plays and other performing arts, the mosque, the church or the shrine for worship, the library for the printed words, today, it is to the museum one goes to see evidence of man's material outfit. For, no other institution or place so readily comes to mind as museums do when evidence of material culture is sought. Herein lies the importance of museums as cultural institutions and an agency for transmitting culture.

21. Museums are at artificial creation because
